              THE CLERK: Criminal Cause for a Bail Application for 3 case No. 19-CR-576, USA v. Luna. Counsel, please state your appearance for the record.
 4
              MR. ROBOTTI: Good afternoon, Your Honor. Michael 5 Robotti for the United States.
 6
 7
              THE COURT: Good afternoon.
 8
              MR. DeCASTRO: Good afternoon, Judge. Cesar DeCastro 9 for Mr. Garcia Luna who's standing to my left.
10
              THE CLERK: Previously sworn Spanish interpreter also 11 present.
12
              THE COURT: Is it working?
13
              THE CLERK: Yes, Your Honor.
14
              THE COURT:
                          Okay.
15
              MR. ROBOTTI: Judge, I'd like to start by addressing an issue that was raised yesterday. I wasn't here yesterday.
16
17
    Ms. Reid was here. But my understanding is that defense 18 counsel represented that Mr. Garcia Luna had paid rent on the 19 mansion that he owned in South Florida once he moved to the 20
    United States. Mr. Luna said to the Government during his post 21 arrest statement that he lived there rent free. So the 22 Government would like to hear from the defense whether it is 23 the position that Mr. Garcia Luna lied to the Government during 24 his post arrest statement because we think that's highly 25 relevant to the fact as to whether Mr. Garcia Luna will stand
```

```
3 by his word to the Court that he is going to show up for his 1 2
    court appearances when he signs this bond.
 3
              THE COURT: All right. So specifically what was the statement that he made that you believe is untruthful?
 4
              MR. ROBOTTI: He said that he lived at this residence 5 rent free and yesterday defense counsel said the exact 6 7 opposite.
 8
              THE COURT: Okay. And which residence is that?
              MR. ROBOTTI: It's the residents at 274 South Island
 9 10 Drive.
11
              THE COURT:
                          In?
              MR. ROBOTTI: In Golden Beach, Florida.
12
13
              THE COURT: And who does it belong to?
14
              MR. ROBOTTI: It was owned by a corporation that 15 purchased it in 2012. Our position is that that corporation purchased it on behalf of Mr. Garcia Luna. It's a $3.3 million 16
17
    5,900 square foot residence.
18
              THE COURT: And it belongs to the corporation at this time?
19 20
              MR. ROBOTTI: No, it was sold in 2016.
21
              THE COURT:
                          Sold in 2016. And where did the proceeds 22 of the sale qo?
23
              MR. ROBOTTI: The Government doesn't have that 24 information, Your Honor. My understanding from the interview 25 with Mr. Luna's wife is that their contention is it went to the
```

4 corporation. 1 2 THE COURT: Okay. Does he have any interest in the 3 corporation at this time? MR. ROBOTTI: His name is not on the corporate 4 5 documents, Your Honor. But our understanding is, you know, he was involved in the selection of that property while he was 6 7 still in office in Mexico in 2012. And I suppose that's 8 another issue we should address about his post arrest statement, Your Honor, is that in his post arrest statement to 9 10 the Government, Mr. Luna said that he was not involved in 11 selecting that property, he didn't know when it was purchased. 12 We interviewed one of Mr. Garcia Luna's suretors today, Ivan 13 Ramirez, who recalls in fact that Mr. Garcia Luna was involved 14 in the selection of that property prior to the purchase. 15 also interviewed the prior owner of that property who recalls that Mr. Garcia Luna and his family were involved in the 16 17 selection of that property prior to its purchase. So again 18 here now we have Mr. Garcia Luna making a statement that is 19 directly contradicting a statement that one of his proposed 20 suretors is making. So the Government again would like to know 21 whether it's Mr. Garcia Luna's position that he lied during his 22 post arrest or that his proposed suretor is lying to the 23 Government about what happened during the course of the sale. 24 And what is -- in addition to the alleged THE COURT:

untruthfulness, is there other significance to the answer to

5 that question? 1 2 MR. ROBOTTI: About whether or not that --THE COURT: He was involved in the purchase. 3 MR. ROBOTTI: Yes, Your Honor, because one of the 4 contentions that Mr. Garcia Luna is making is that he does not 5 have access to sufficient funds. And it is our position that 6 7 he does in fact have access to funds in the names of other 8 people. For instance, this property, this $3 million property was purchased on behalf of he and his family under the name of 9 10 a corporation that he is not tied to on any corporate 11 documents. This same corporation bought Mr. Garcia Luna a 12 $700,000 yacht that same year for his exclusive use. In 13 addition to that, there are other payments that have been made 14 in the names of third parties that have gone to benefit Mr. 15 Garcia Luna. For instance, one of Mr. Garcia Luna's proposed suretors is Caesar Geraldo I believe. Yes, Caesar Geraldo. 16 17 made payments to the -- of about $40,000 to the private 18 institutions that Mr. Garcia Luna's children are going to. Again, I think that was in -- I think that was recently in 2016 19 or 2017. And there have been other instances of another 20 21 corporation that was tied to this same corporation, the owners 22 of the same corporation that purchased the mansion and that 23 purchased the yacht. Another corporation tied to the owners of 24 that one also made a significant payment to a private school on 25 behalf of Mr. Garcia Luna. So what we're seeing here, Your Honor, is that although Mr. Luna is claiming that he does not have access to these assets, there is a pattern here of assets in other people's names being used for his benefit which goes directly to the question of bail here.

In addition, while we're on the topic of assets he has access to, there is some discrepancy that the Government would like clarified about whether or not Mr. Garcia Luna and his wife continued to own Augie [Ph.] Café. According to Mr. Garcia Luna's wife, this is a café that's in Florida that the family has owned for the past few years. According to Mr. Garcia Luna's wife, that was sold last year. According to the accountant that works for Mr. Garcia Luna and his family, that sale never actually went through and as far as he knew, the family still owned the property. We spoke to the manager of Augie Café today who indicated that as far as he knew, no sale had been completed. He was not aware of whether -- he admitted there could have been a sale without his knowledge. he knew, the family continued to own the café. So we are concerned, Your Honor, about the fact that Mr. Garcia Luna does have access to assets. You know, I think whether or not he has access to these assets I'm happy to go into further. It really doesn't matter that much in terms of what it would take him to actually flee. You know, I do find it hard to believe that he's coming into court saying that he has $4 million worth of properties but that he doesn't have access to any cash.

7 even if we are to assume that that is true, what we're talking 1 2 about in terms of flight here is him getting into a car and driving to the Mexican border that he knows he can cross 3 without travel documents. Or getting into a boat, perhaps the 4 yacht that he had bought for him for $700,000 and taking a boat 5 to a different country that doesn't have extradition or to 6 7 Mexico where he could then flee. So it's not like this will 8 take a significant amount of assets for him to actually flee, Your Honor. And once he's in Mexico, it's the Government's 9 10 position that either his family members, he has extensive extended family there, or his web of former corrupt officials 11 12 who he worked with who are his co-conspirators in this case, or 13 the [inaudible] cartel will shield him. And this happens 14 repeatedly in Mexico where fugitives are shielded from justice. 15 MR. ROBOTTI: Your Honor, excuse me, I do have some 16 specific issues with the suretors too which I'm happy to go 17 over. 18 THE COURT: Yes, why don't you? And then I'll let the defense speak after that. 19 20 MR. ROBOTTI: So with respect to Caesar Geraldo, I'm 21 interested to know if defense counsel has actually spoken to 22 The Government has been trying to contact Mr. Geraldo for 23 well over a month. He hasn't answered his phone once. 24 tried him yesterday, we tried him today. Travel records show 25 that he last left the United States last year. He was

8 scheduled to come back to the United States on January 26, 2020 1 2 on a flight back from Cancún. He was not on that flight. as far as the Government knows, he's not in the United States 3 and shouldn't be considered as a suretor unless the defense can 4 come forward with some information otherwise. 5 Andres Miro [Ph.], Your Honor, it's the position of 6 7 the Government that, you know, someone with an income of about 8 $60,000 is not a sufficient suretor in this case for a $1 million bond. The same thing with Paula Perez. She makes 9 10 about $25,000 per year. Again, it's hard to see how someone making that amount of money would be able to satisfy a $1 11 million bond. So therefore, we think there's little assurance 12 13 here. 14 And then with respect to the remaining suretors, Your 15 Honor, and I think this is important here to consider when we are thinking about the structure of this package, these 16 17 suretors really don't have any financial stake here. 18 suretors have no skin in the game for whether Mr. Garcia Luna 19 is going to show up or not. 20 THE COURT: You mean there's no property posted? 21 MR. ROBOTTI: Well, the property -- there's property 22 being posted. It's Mr. Garcia Luna's property --23 THE COURT: Right. 24 MR. ROBOTTI: -- of about $1 million. And it's a $1 25 million bond. And this property which we talked about before is likely subject to forfeiture when he's convicted anyway. I don't think that his property offers any real incentive for him to stay in the United States. But just holding out what will happen here if Mr. Garcia Luna in fact absconds is that the Government is going to forfeit the $1 million property and the rest of the suretors are going to be off the hook. don't have any financial risk here. So I don't see how them signing this bond is offering the Government or the Court any assurance that he's going to show up. And in fact, when we spoke to Mr. Ramirez this afternoon he indicated that if this property, Mr. Garcia Luna's property was not being put up, he would not sign this bond because he said frankly I don't have $1 million to pay. So you know, it's the understanding of these suretors that they're not going to have to pay because this property is going to be forfeited. So I don't think that the suretors offer any additional assurance to the Court that he's going to show up besides the mere posting of this property which as I said Mr. Garcia Luna is going to be more than comfortable walking away from that property because he knows he's going to lose it in any event if he's convicted. So Your Honor, we think that this package for those reasons is wholly inadequate and we also think that this particular defendant has serious credibility problems which should lead the Court to be incredibly skeptical of his assurance that he's going to show up to court as he's supposed

              THE COURT: All right. Thank you."
              MR. DeCASTRO: So what can I address first if there's 3 a particular order the Court would want?
 4
 5
              THE COURT: Up to you.
              MR. DeCASTRO: There's a lot there.
                                                   I quess I'll 6 7
    start with what they started with which is his home in Florida 8 that they're talking about which is 274 South Island, Golden 9 Beach, Florida.
                    The claim is that he picked it out, they 10 purchased it for him, some shell company I guess.
11 Government knows that it was purchased by this company that is not owned by Mr. Garcia Luna. They know who owns it.
12 13 real people, they're real individuals and they have a real 14
               In fact, what I said yesterday said that the Garcia 15 Lunas were renting that property. What was my basis of that?
    I didn't pull that out of thin air. I was looking at a 16 17 residential lease agreement. And that residential lease 18 agreement is between that company and the defendant's wife and it has the exact address of the location and how much the rent 19 20
         I can provide that to the Court if they want.
21
    Government has this because this was on Mr. Garcia Luna's 22 laptop that they seized at the time of his arrest and which 23 that he provided the password to, did not make them go get a 24 warrant. He said here, you can have it, go ahead and look.
25
    All these documents are there. So that's the basis that they wanted to start with, what is my basis for saying that?

There's my basis. That house did have a boat on it that is owned by that company. That company said here, you can -- his employers are saying you can live in this house. You can live in this house and it's with rent. There are times where that rent would not be charged monthly because they owe him money from work being done. He was employed and working very hard. So that's the issue with the home.

The issue -- well, first I'd like to start with instead of the Government asking me questions, I'd like to just point out to the Court what happened since yesterday. So obviously there was an issue that the Government came in here with and said oh look, two suretors, they're no longer available. They don't want to do it. Okay. And I said to the Court, you know, this was strange, I was getting mixed messages. So went back to my office and counsel finally returned my call. We had a long conversation. He counseled his client into the conversation. We had a conversation regarding the surety issue. And so that cleared up. lawyer immediately emailed the Government saying they are willing to cosign the bond. In fact, they are here today sitting in the front row. Both of those people are here this morning on a drop of a dime to come here to clear up that issue.

I then reached out because I understood to have backup I said well, let's just have every cosigner possible, 1 what we can present to this Court, they're willing to sign a 2 bond. Members of his community living in Florida, these are 3 people that are friends of the family, people that work around 4 They're friends and they're willing to sign. 5 him, with him. The Government has issues with some of those suretors because 6 7 they don't make enough money. Well add it up, they make over 8 $1 million annually together. So first -- so we cleared up 9 that issue. I provided the names, the phone numbers, the 10 relationship to Mr. Garcia Luna, every person and email about 3 o'clock, 3:30, 4 o'clock yesterday to Pretrial Services. I 11 12 talked to the Government on that information and I said they're 13 all ready to be interviewed, whatever you want. The response I 14 got from Pretrial was please have them fill out a suretor 15 declaration form. I immediately went, got a suretor declaration form filled out for everyone except the two 16 17 individuals that are here today because I hadn't spoken to 18 counsel about that issue. That was all done. I've been forwarded to Pretrial Services the Housing and Urban 19 20 Development closing statements, or HUD statements, for the 21 three properties that Mr. Garcia Luna is prepared to offer, a 22 combination of which I don't think all three are necessary, but 23 we're willing to put up all three. The Court should have HUD statements on all three. I sent them also to the Government. 24 25 So I'd like -- and so one of the -- so that means that I propose the original four suretors plus the six more, 1

    three of which are moral suasion, all of which Pretrial Services has indicated a suitable surety in terms of either 3 moral suasion or just a suitable surety.
 4
              So one of those suretors I might add is a former FBI
 5
           The Government has spoken to that person today. He is 6 7 willing if necessary -- one of the questions that Pretrial had 8 for me yesterday was are there any properties that are owned by someone else that you could put up? My answer was I don't 9 10 that's necessary. However, I endeavored to speak to the proposed suretors and that former FBI agent indicated sure, I 11 have a property, it's worth $300,000, I'd be willing to put it 12
13
         I have the address of that property. I don't have yet the 14 documents of it because I've just been speaking to him this 15 morning or this afternoon about it. But that is available.
                          Is it a residence or a business property?
16
              THE COURT:
17
              MR. DeCASTRO: It's a residence I believe.
18
              THE COURT:
                          Where he lives?
              MR. DeCASTRO: I think it's a rental income 19 residence.
20 21
              THE COURT:
                          A rental income.
22
              MR. DeCASTRO: I'm not 100 percent sure.
23
              THE COURT: And what's the value?
24
              MR. DeCASTRO: About 300,000 I believe. Maybe a 25 little -- he said maybe a little shy of 300 depending on the

14 market. 1 2 Now, addressing a couple of the things that the 3 Government raised, the issue of the restaurant. I mean first of all, I take a little bit of issue in this being a discovery 4 exercise but fine, the restaurant issue, my understanding is 5 that it was sold. It was sold -- and my understanding is based 6 7 on the same understanding they have. I spoke to the accountant 8 as well. I know exactly what's going on. I know that the Government has subpoenaed the accountant. He shared that with 9 10 me and the details of the subpoena. And so what I was informed 11 was that he doesn't know yet about booking that. His 12 understanding he was told that it was sold. He's just working 13 on getting the documents in order to [inaudible] Mr. Garcia Luna's been arrested. 14 15 THE COURT: He's the accountant? MR. DeCASTRO: He's the accountant, yes. So he could 16 17 not give me any clarity on that in terms of -- his 18 understanding was that it was sold but he has an accountant for that. 19 20 THE COURT: Did he say how much it was selling for? 21 MR. DeCASTRO: No. I can find out though. 22 [Inaudible] if the Court wants me to. 23 MR. ROBOTTI: Your Honor, just on that point, my 24 understanding from the accountant is there may have been some 25 contracts signed but the deal fell through and no money was

15 ever transferred in connection with the sale. 1 2 MR. DeCASTRO: They're mistaken. I think they're mistaken on that. I think the Government is in the middle of 3 their investigation. They can't just assume the worst. That's 4 5 not my understanding. They assume that he wasn't renting a property and I have a lease. So --6 7 MR. ROBOTTI: Just on the rental point, the point I 8 made earlier was not about whether he was paying rent or not. I think it's perfectly plausible that he was paying rent to try 9 10 to cover the fact that he had this house purchased for him. point was that he told the Government during his post arrest 11 interview that he was living there rent free and that 12 13 materially contradicts what counsel is saying here today. 14 MR. DeCASTRO: First, I think that's not what he 15 I think that they are trying to make something black and white that is not black and white. 16 17 You know, so the other issue is the Government's 18 disbelief that he has no cash available. They don't believe 19 it. But they don't give you any evidence that he has cash available to him. I have provided you with specific evidence 20 21 of that and that he's blocked from the financial system in 22 Mexico. He cannot sell his property. I don't think the 23 Government is going to deny that they are not willing to tell 24 any proposed purchaser of property that they are not going to 25 seek it from forfeiture, but they have not said whether they will or not. No one is buying the property with that 1 potential, even potential. They continue to say that he has a 2 web, there was a web of former corrupt officials. Let me 3 repeat what I said yesterday which is the Government cannot 4 just ask for a human being to be detained without bail, to be 5 deprived of his liberty and just say it's because we think 6 7 there's this web out there of people that will help him and 8 then say who they are and try to identify for this Court these 9 are the people that we know are going to help him. Of course 10 assuming the absurdity that he's somehow going to walk to Texas and walk over the border or get into a vehicle over the border, 11 12 there is -- with location monitoring that's not happening. 13 Okay? He's not leaving his wife and children here. He's not 14 leaving his life that he built here. The Government says 15 there's no risk to any of the suretors, no risk at all. So then they should just say don't put up the property. 16 17 tons of risk to the suretors. And I bet you many of them are 18 willing to sign still because I spoke to almost all of them that understand. And the reason they understand is because 19 20 these are members of this community. The Government wants to 21 attack people as improper suretors who work in a restaurant, 22 that manage the restaurant that [inaudible] own. 23 people that know the family. They know the family. willing to do it because this is their community, these are 24 25 their friends. Right? He's not going to want to leave this group of people holding the bag. This group of ten suretors includes his family. He's going to leave his wife, his two children who are in college here in the United States who are starting their -- who we hope are starting their career very soon? All of his friends? He's going to leave them holding the bag? I just don't see it happening. And the Court can certainly impose conditions that can assure his appearance.

think that addressed [inaudible].

Ι

I mean I guess the only thing I should say is, you know, the Government has his passport and his green card. Why do they have that? Not because someone asked him to, he gave it to them. So they arrested him, they seized him, they can have it. They have it. It's in place. So they know exactly where one of the suretors has been going. They know where he is, they know when he's scheduled to fly. He's not going anywhere.

MR. ROBOTTI: Judge, just to address a few points, I mean short of the fact that he doesn't have the green card or the passport is going to prevent him from getting on a flight to Mexico, of course. But there's other ways to get out of the country. And one of the way -- I spoke to a Border Patrol agent this morning who said to me that he can drive across the border without showing any documents. So it's not hard to get into a car and drive from Florida to the border in Texas. It's within a day. On top of that, he can get on a boat, take the boat outside the country. We can't stop him. And electronic monitoring has its limitations, Judge. Sure we would ask for him to be on a bracelet but he can slip that off and be gone before we even know about it.

You know, in terms of the package that's been proposed, I would point out that, as I said before, the properties that Mr. Garcia Luna is offering to put up are meaningless. They offer no assurance here that he's going to show up because those properties are going to be subject to forfeiture in any event. And my understanding from speaking with the two suretors who are in court today, or at least Mr. Ramirez, he is not willing to sign the bond without those properties. So I think that we need to take that into consideration here when we're looking at this proposed package because as I said before, the suretors don't in fact have any financial stake in this package right now. All Mr. Garcia Luna has to be willing to do is give up these properties, flee to Mexico and give up these properties that he's going to lose I bet that he's willing to do that to avoid going to anyway. jail for potentially the rest of his life.

In terms of his ties to the community, Mr. Garcia Luna up until 2012 had spent his entire life in Mexico. His family, his extended family is there. His family that resides in the United States right now also are Mexican citizens. Easily leave the United States as well if their father is going to avoid spending potentially the rest of his life in United States custody. So I think these are things we need to be looking at seriously here which are his ties back to Mexico and the lack of significant ties that he's had in the United States up until 2012.

In terms of the corrupt officials that will assist him, as Your Honor knows, we're not going to stand up here and name officials that are under investigation. There's a DOJ policy against naming unindicted co-conspirators. But we are entitled to stand up here and proffer based on our investigation and interviews with numerous other cooperating witnesses that Mr. Garcia Luna was connected to an entire web of corrupt officials who were being paid off by the [inaudible] cartel. Many of those officials are still in Mexico. Many of them still hold powerful positions in the private sector. And they would be willing, we believe, to facilitate his flight from justice if nothing else to avoid a public trial where their names will come out on the record.

And on top of that, Your Honor, you know, I think we've gone back and forth about whether or not he still has title to this company, the Augie Café. I think it is important to know whether or not, they should be able to answer whether or not that is still their asset. If they do still have access to that corporation, you know, it is an ongoing concern, it is a business that is still operating and that is another source 20 of assets that he could be using here. But again, just 1 stepping back, Your Honor, I think the assets question whether 2 he has access to it or not, you know, I just don't want to lose 3 sight of which I do think is a critical point is it doesn't 4 take a lot of money for him to flee. He has an extensive 5 network in Mexico, legitimate and illegitimate. And I think 6 7 he's going to be able to take advantage of that to get out of 8 the country. MR. DeCASTRO: Judge, if I could just on --9 10 THE COURT: Let me just ask a question. I think I asked it yesterday but if the suretors had posted property, 11 12 would that change your view? 13 MR. ROBOTTI: No, Your Honor. It's the Government's 14 position that there's no package that is sufficient here. 15 certainly this package is not sufficient. Okay. So think back to the 16 THE COURT: [indiscernible] prosecutions, and I don't know if they're 17 18 exactly analogous but I was trying to think of some analogous situation where there were people who were high officials in 19 20 foreign governments who had been accused of either taking or 21 giving bribes and who came to the US and many of them were 22 released on bond, not all, but many of them were. How would 23 you describe the difference between this defendant and those 24 defendants? If you know. If you're familiar enough with those 25 cases.

MR. ROBOTTI: Sorry, Judge, offhand I don't know all the details of the bond packages in the [indiscernible] case. I try to keep up on all the office's prosecutions but I can't say that I'm intimately familiar with what happened there.

THE COURT: Yes. Because I had a number of those before me and there were many, many, many people released on substantial bonds who had holdings and extensive ties in other countries. I suppose some of the differences would be that they came and self-surrendered in the US. Some of them did. But there are some similarities to this defendant. I suppose the other question would be whether or not there's -- what you describe as -- whether there was what you describe as a web of corrupt officials who would have protected them had they gone back to their country and fled. So that may be the difference. I'm not sure.

MR. ROBOTTI: And I do think we have to be looking at this particular defendant here, Your Honor. I don't know what property was posted. I don't know what suretors were involved, what would be the case. But looking at this particular package that's being offered here, especially when this property that's within the United States that he's offering to put up, this $4 million, as I said, that doesn't carry any weight at all, so we're basically left with, you know, his ability to just give up these forfeitable properties if he's willing to flee to avoid a life sentence. I just don't think that's sufficient

22 here, Judge. Nobody has any stake in this. 1 2 THE COURT: All right. Thank you. MR. DeCASTRO: So Judge, I quess let me address that 3 The Government talks to you on forfeiture issues as if 4 they won at trial. We're talking about substitute assets that 5 they say they are going to seek when they win a trial. 6 7 at the early stages of a trial. Mr. Garcia Luna is presumed 8 innocent. He is fighting these charges. Yet the Government acts as if he's pled guilty already or they've proven him 9 10 guilty or -- excuse me. So first of all, there's that. And to say that he doesn't have -- it's meaningless is based on what I 11 don't know. These properties are his. They're his retirement 12 13 essentially and they are worth a lot of money. It's not just 14 one property as I said. The potential for three if the Court 15 wants that. 16 In terms of him just getting on a boat, number one, 17 as I think I indicated to Pretrial a number of times, that he 18 would reside in Washington, DC. He would not be residing in Florida. But he would be residing with his wife who is living 19 with their daughter in college, in her college apartment. 20 21 They're living together. They would reside in Washington. 22 Should the Court want him to rent an apartment here in New 23 York, he would do that if it was necessary. He's not going to 24 be on the border. He's not walking across, jumping in a car. 25 You know, we're talking about days and days of travel. And you know, on Fifa [Ph.], I'm a little familiar with some of the I don't think a single defendant -- I'm defendants in Fifa. not aware of any single defendant who was released fleeing in that case either. So I don't think that would be the case here And I do think the Government made allegations that they have all these connections all abroad and they're all very high level officials. None of those people came [inaudible]. His ties to the community are strong. This is where he wanted to make his life. His family is here. They have remained her since his arrest. They're living in Washington and the son is not in Washington but they are all United States citizens, all three of them. And so I don't see how the drastic remedy of detention is appropriate here. Judge, you know, again, it's hard to MR. ROBOTTI: talk about Fifa without knowing the specifics, but I can guarantee that the people who were detained in Fifa didn't flee

In terms of the forfeiture, Judge, I think these are potentially substitute assets but the point is what we're looking at in terms of incentives to stay in the United States. And if somebody's sitting here and saying if I stay in the United States is a good chance that I lose these properties, these $4 million properties, there's a good chance I go to jail for the rest of my life, or I can just give up those properties that I'm likely to lose anyway and go to Mexico, I think that and that's what we should be doing here.

```
24 there's a strong incentive to go to Mexico rather than stay in 1
 2 United States with respect to those properties. So that's the point where making is that these properties he's offering to 3 put up don't give an incentive to stay here because they're 4
    likely to be forfeited anyways.
              MR. DeCASTRO: And Judge, and ruin the lives of ten
 7 of his closest friends.
 8
              MR. ROBOTTI: But that's not true.
                                                  That's not accurate under this bond. Under this bond, the $1 million 9 10 property would be forfeited and all these other suretors would 11 be off the hook. They don't have any financial stake in this.
12
              MR. DeCASTRO: So then remove the properties and 13 people will sign. Mr. -- as I indicated, the former FBI agent 14 would put up his house. And do a combination and he'll put up 15 his home. I don't see what the issue is.
              THE COURT: That's Mr. Villar [Ph.]?
16
17
              MR. DeCASTRO: Yes.
18
              THE COURT: Would any of the other suretors put up 19 their property, their homes?
20
              MR. DeCASTRO: I don't think they own homes.
21 Properties that [inaudible] available [inaudible]. I believe 22 that home is also owned outright.
23
              THE COURT: Right. As I was looking at this, there was one thing that was missing to me was there wasn't any real 24 25 property that the suretors themselves were posting, residences
```

25 that they lived in that if he fled they would lose.
                                                         That's a
1 2
    strong incentive. A rental property is an investment.
    something different.
 3
              MR. DeCASTRO: But as the Government has pointed out 4 to suretors, or at least as they've reported to me, that it's 5 They're saying that now in court. They're saying to 6 7 suretors that well no, well if we're forfeiting those 8 properties then you're going to be on the hook for that money, for that $1 million bond. So it's not nothing. And they've 9 10
    all been informed of that that yes, the property might be split up but if the Government is correct that they are going to 11 forfeit that property, they will be on the hook. They will be 12 13 on the hook. That's -- I've been clear to say that to them.
14
    It's not just oh yeah, don't worry, sign because there's 15 property. That's not what the message has been. That's not [inaudible].
16
17
              THE COURT: Well, how are they on the hook?
18 their wages could be garnished over a period of time, 10 percent, whatever the percentage is.
19 20
              MR. DeCASTRO: The Government could move on any of 21 their property they had, right? And I mean in my experience, 22 the Government when they go after a bond, they go after that 23
           That's why it's very, very difficult for the person's 24 loved ones.
25
              MR. ROBOTTI: But practically speaking, Judge, if
```

```
26 there is a $1 million property tied to this bond -- 1
 2
              THE COURT: Right, they'll go after that first.
              MR. ROBOTTI: -- the defendant flees, the Government 3 is going to forfeit that $1 million property and the bond will 4 be satisfied. Therefore, all these other suretors, their lives 5 aren't going to be ruined as defense counsel says.
 6 7 going to be off the hook.
 8
              THE COURT: How much is Mr. Luna's property worth?
              MR. ROBOTTI: My understanding is that there's about 9 10
    $4 million worth of properties.
11
              THE COURT: Would your concerns be alleviated if the bond were $5 million?
12
13
              MR. ROBOTTI: No, Judge. I mean I think we have the 14 same concerns. I mean the property is, again, $4 million of 15 properties don't matter because he's going to be willing to give up those properties because he knows he's likely to lose 16 17
    them anyways. In terms of the additional $1 million, it's one, 18
    not clear to me that any of these suretors are going to sign 19 under those circumstances but I think the defense has an obligation to have figured that out and come back to the Court 20 21 with a package that indicates who's willing to sign in the 22 absence of these properties. On top of that, I do think that most of these suretors cannot satisfy a $1 million bond. And 23 24
    look, the one person who is potentially offering property lives 25 in Utah. He doesn't see the defendant and his family very

27 often. It's not clear to me at all that the defendant is not 1 2 willing to leave him holding the bag to avoid a potential life sentence. 3 THE COURT: 4 Okay. MR. DeCASTRO: So someone who has served the 5 6 Department of Justice as an agent, is retired and still 7 working, told me today this morning he had no problem, whatever 8 you need because I trust him, I know him, I've worked with him. He is a good honest person. What's happening to him is unfair 9 10 and unjust. Whatever you need from me, just let me know. You 11 know, I don't think that's a person that -- and the only reason 12 I know about that person is from my client. And so, you know, 13 the Government's suggestion if the Court set a $5 million bond 14 [inaudible] oh no one's going to sign. Well, you know, just to 15 say give it more time, give it more time so that he can stay detained, we could try to jump through some more hoops and 16 17 figure it out and they'll just keep saying detention anyway is 18 just not fair. It's just not fair. It is not what the Bail 19 Reform Act talks about. MR. ROBOTTI: It is, Your Honor. It's a presumption 20 21 case. 22 THE COURT: It's not whether or not the Government 23 I mean that would make life easier for you if the 24 It's whether or not the Government's Government agreed. 25 argument that there would be no pain suffered by the suretors would be [indiscernible]. 1 2 MR. DeCASTRO: So I think your solution, I mean it would be the Court's solution, you know, if -- and you can ask 3 the suretors, and my understanding is they would, from my 4 conversations with them, that most if not all would sign the 5 Even if four decided not to sign the bond, you have six 6 7 people signing the bond. I can't remember the last time I've 8 had more than five people sign the bond in this court or the Southern District. 9 10 MR. ROBOTTI: Well, Your Honor, let's talk about what that means. So three of those people would be the defendant's 11 12 family who do not have any assets different here --13 THE COURT: Well, that depends who signed it. 14 MR. ROBOTTI: And then depending on who the other 15 three are, I mean the other couple then who clearly cannot meet 16 any financial eligible requirement here -- and just with 17 respect to the suretor in Utah, I'm sure he had lots of nice 18 things to say about Mr. Garcia Luna but he obviously doesn't 19 know all the evidence that the Government has about Mr. Garcia 20 Luna's extensive crimes over the last 20 years. So I don't 21 think that that really adds much value here. And I do think 22 that somebody who's facing a potential life sentence may be 23 willing to leave an acquaintance behind holding the bag for a 24 $300,000 property to avoid that jail sentence. 25 So look, Your Honor, this is a presumption case. The burden is here, is on the defense in the first instance to come 1 2 forward with a package that rebuts that presumption. Right now we have a lot of speculation that even if these properties were 3 not put up by Mr. Garcia Luna that some people might be willing 4 5

    to sign this bond. We don't have anything concrete about that.
    Yet either way, it is the Government's position that the bond
 6 7 is not sufficient here. But certainly in these circumstances 8 here the defense has not rebutted the presumption.
              THE COURT: And which suretors are here today?
 9 10
              MR. DeCASTRO: Mr. Ramirez, Ms. -- I mess up her last name, [indiscernible], and the defendant's wife and father 11 12 also.
13
              THE COURT:
                          Okay.
14
              MR. DeCASTRO: All are available by phone because 15 they're all in different places. In this one issue, I just 16 don't understand why the Government is hammering on this as if 17
    all the suretors have to -- they have to be financially 18 responsible.
                  They don't have to be able to get $1 million from 19 them to [inaudible] where it has to be fully secured.
20
              MR. ROBOTTI: Well, of course, Your Honor, a $1 21 million bond is meaningless if there's no way to satisfy it.
22
              THE COURT: Well, except that it would present an 23 obligation to the signers that could potentially go for the 24 rest of their lives.
25
              MR. ROBOTTI: Of course, Judge, but the likelihood of
```

```
30 the Government recovering $1 million is of course very minimal.
1
 2
   And you know, if somebody realizes they're going to be on the hook for 10 percent of their wages for the rest of their lives 3 versus actually having to pay $1 million, that's a different 4 incentive.
 5
              MR. DeCASTRO: I don't know anyone anywhere that 6 7 wants to have their wages garnished when people have to pay 8 their bills.
 9
              THE COURT: Okay. All right. I'm going to reserve 10 decision.
              I'm going to think about this. I'll take a short 11
             I may or may not want to speak to the suretors. But I recess.
12
    think we have a couple of other cases to do at this point.
13
              MR. ROBOTTI: Okay. Thank you, Judge.
14
              MR. DeCASTRO: Stick around?
15
              THE COURT: Yes, stick around.

present.

THE COURT: All right. We've had three sets of arguments in this case and counsel on both sides have presented what I think are strong arguments. This is not an easy case. It's a case where I believe that reasonable people could disagree. Pretrial Services has recommended that there are no conditions or combinations of conditions that will reasonably assure the appearance of the defendant as required and the safety of the community and recommends detention. The Government also takes that position and the defense believes that there are reasonable conditions and combinations of conditions that could ensure his return to court.

I don't see this as much as a danger to the community argument as a risk of flight argument that's the key issues here. I don't go as far as the Government does to say that there are no conditions or combinations of conditions that could ensure his return. Similarly, I don't agree with Pretrial Services to that extent although I think I understand the position. I've looked at the factors under the Bail Reform Act, the nature and characteristics of the defendant, the crime charged, the evidence, et cetera, et cetera and I've looked at the package very carefully and I'm not going to go through all the reasons and the arguments that both sides made. I think the record's pretty clear on that. Ultimately, my view is that this package is not strong enough at this point to ensure his return to court. And there are a number of reasons why, but I 1 2 think what particularly is troubling about the package is that it relies solely on income but not on assets. And residential 3 assets, assets that would actually cause some kind of pain to 4 5

32
    the individual that's greater than mere garnishment of wages, particularly as the Government noted after a house would have 6 7
    been confiscated and used to pay the amount of the bond.
 8 that's a brief summary of my reasons I think the bond is not strong enough. I'm not saying that there are no conditions 9 10 that could ensure his return to court, but this bond doesn't quite do it. So that's my ruling.
11
              MR. DeCASTRO: I [inaudible].
12
13
              MR. ROBOTTI: Thank you, Judge.
14
              MR. DeCASTRO: Your Honor, if, for example, we were 15 to put up some residential properties, can we come back to 16 court or do we -- 17
              THE COURT: You can always come back to court any 18 time to be heard. Right.
19
              MR. DeCASTRO: Right. I mean do we come back to Your 20
    Honor or do we start this process all over again?
21
              THE COURT: Whoever's on duty at the time you come 22 back to. But if whoever's on duty is asked what my ruling was, my ruling wasn't that there's no combination of conditions.
23
24
    It's that this package was troubling for the reasons that the 25 Government mentioned and for the particular fact that there's
```

```
33 not any solid assets behind it. I don't see a rental property 1 2
    as being the kind of asset that would make me comfortable.
    again, another judge may see it differently.
3
              MR. DeCASTRO: Thank you, Judge.
